LECTURE BY REV. DR. WILLITTS .- Notwithstanding the rain, Brainard's Hall was ompletely filled last evening by a refined and intelligent audience, eager to hear the second lecture of the course by Rev. A. A. Willitta D. D. of Brooklyn, N. V. His subject was, "Sunshine; or, the Secret of Happiness." It was the most genial of disourses, warm with the broadest human sympathy, and abounding with humor, happy illustrative anecdotes, told in a manner equal to the felicity of Gough, and not without occasional passages of eloquence which carried the address to heights of

The lecture was not an ambitious effort, ent any original views. But the speaker dealt with every day life as he finds it, in he light of the feelings, motives, aims, acual and possible, of that life, and painted a juiet household picture, whose screne beauv touched and charmed the hearts of all isteners. We have never seen an audience ore thoroughly delighted with an address, and we can assure the eloquent lecturer that he has made, on the occasion of his first appearance here, hundreds of ardent adnirers and friends, by this excellent discurse. It is thoroughly enjoyable and true n statement and aim, and should be repeated before every Association and Lyceum in the land. The effect of such a sunshing lecture must be, a general casting out of blue devils, and all grumblings and impotent bewaitings of grievous lot, and a sud-

TUESDAY EVENING, Nov. 21, 1865. We record no change in the money may et to-day. Bankers experience a steady and fair demand for discounts, but there is a pressure, and custom paper is quite genuet. There is no encouragement, owever, given to be recovered to the state of the state o nd fair demand for discounts, but there is owever, given to borrowers, and the dispoition of bankers to hold their means unde oes no change or modification. Nor is the ikely to be any change while trade contin es in its present unsettled condition, which will probably be until Secretary McCulloch and Congress have decided upon the plan to e pursued with reference to the currency, he character of which must give a decid urn to matters in one direction or the other if contraction, in the general settling down of values: if expansion, in a renewal of speculation for higher prices. It is simply the uncertainty as to the issue of this question that is keening business in its present tagnant condition. In the meantime holders of produce are straining every nerve to ustain themselves, while buyers will make o engagements beyond present necessities. It is to be hoped that Congress will give this nestion its earliest consideration, for it is one of the highest concern to all classes .-The serious effects of a long continued sluggishness in trade, such as now exists, can not be overestimated, and it is of the highst importance, both for government and il people, that no unnecessary time should be ost in giving the country to understand what is to be the policy under which its siness shall be conducted.

Exchange remains about as previously reorted, the offerings being very light and he market ruling close. The demand is aly moderate. Rates are unchanged and only moderate. Rates are unchanged and firm at par buying and 4 premium selling.

The supply of money in New York is steadily increasing, and 6 per cent, is becoming a common rate for call loans on governing a common rate for call loans on govern ng a common rate for call loans on governand currency is stringent.
